

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Community Guide is a collective effort of many people, from those who first proposed the idea of a Guide to Community Preventive Services in the early 1990s to those who continue to work every day to expand evidence-based recommendations and findings to improve the health and safety of our communities through The Community Guide. In addition to our Community Preventive Services Task Force members and liaisons, past and present, we thank all of our partners, authors, researchers, staff and friends of the Guide for their contributions and ongoing support. We can't possibly thank everyone enough—or name every person whose contribution to the Guide makes our work possible in the acknowledgements that follow—but please know that we sincerely express our gratitude to everyone associated with the Guide, past, present and future.
